ROCHESTER, N.Y. (WROC-TV)

Greater Rochester Health Foundation announced on Monday that 2016 will be the third year of funding for Community Health Grants. Applications for the first cycle are being accepted now through March 14, 2016.

Community Health Grants range between $5,000 and $50,000 and are an opportunity for smaller organizations whose good works may not qualify for a larger, longer-term grant to receive funding.

501(c)(3) small, non-profit organizations, such as health, religious or educational organizations and government departments that provide health services or health benefiting activities in Genesee, Livingston, Monroe, Ontario, Orleans, Seneca, Wayne, Wyoming, and Yates counties may apply.

For the second time, the Health Foundation is hosting three grant writing workshops to help agencies which are new in applying, have limited grant writing experience, or little grant writing support, since the workshops received such positive feedback from potential grantees.

In just the first two years of Community Health Grant funding, $1.1 million has been distributed through small grants to help smaller agencies fulfill their mission and impact the health in the Greater Rochester area.

Community Health Grants will be available in 2016 to use over a 12-month period. Application information is available here.
